Annex: Brief Description of the Selection Procedure for Uzbekistan Team

The selection procedure for the International Young Physicists' Tournament (IYPT) team was designed to be open, inclusive, and based on student motivation and commitment. An official announcement was made to all high school students, inviting those interested in participating in the competition to come forward. The opportunity was presented to students of all grade levels within the high school, ensuring equal access for any student wishing to take part.

Students who expressed interest were asked to confirm their willingness to commit to the demands of the competition, which include solving complex physics problems, conducting research, and preparing for presentations and discussions in the tournament format. Emphasis was placed on sustained commitment, teamwork, and consistent progress throughout the preparation period.

Following the initial stage, students who agreed to these terms were formally selected to join the IYPT team. To ensure ongoing development and preparation, weekly meetings are held under the supervision of Mr. Jeyhun Jabarov, who provides guidance, monitors each student's progress, and offers feedback on their problem-solving approaches. These regular sessions are designed to track the team's overall readiness, encourage collaborative work, and maintain a structured preparation schedule leading up to the competition.
